With over 20 years of experience as a Controller, Amy brings a broad and deep range of financial expertise to her clients. In addition to her strong foundation in accounts payable, accounts receivable, payroll, and general ledger management, she has led initiatives in budgeting, forecasting, cash flow analysis, and internal controls. Amy has overseen full-cycle accounting operations, produced accurate and timely financial reports, supported external audits, and implemented process improvements to enhance efficiency and compliance. Her ability to manage cross-functional teams and align financial operations with strategic goals makes her a trusted advisor to her clients.

Amy began her accounting career in the not-for-profit sector, where she handled accounts receivable, accounts payable, payroll, and grants accounting. She later transitioned to the healthcare industry, managing accounts payable and biweekly in-house payroll before being promoted to Controller. In recent years, Amy has partnered with organizations across various industries to strengthen their financial operations and navigate complex challenges. She has helped clients streamline accounting processes, improve financial reporting, and implement best practices in budgeting and internal controls. Drawing on her extensive experience, Amy focuses on identifying the most efficient path forward for each client. Her hands-on approach and commitment to delivering practical, results-driven solutions have made her a valued resource to the companies she supports.
