As the Senior Practice Director for Fahrenheit's Core Finance and Accounting Services, Bill collaborates with clients to identify and implement solutions to address their needs. Bill has worked with clients in many industries over the last 20+ years, focusing on operational efficiencies, internal processes and controls, financial reporting & analysis, and enabling technology.

Bill's career started in public accounting, serving large and small public and non-public clients. In addition to clients in retail, manufacturing, energy, financial services, and media, he has worked with start-ups and not-for-profits and understands the nuances of their businesses. After public accounting, Bill served as an assistant financial controller and later as an operational controller at a manufacturing company. He most recently led a team of 20+ accounting associates at a large financial services company responsible for their Commercial Division. Bill is a demonstrated leader with the ability to deliver results in any situation.
