Zach brings nearly two decades of experience in both public and corporate accounting with deep industry specialization in manufacturing and distribution, construction, and professional service companies. He utilizes his experience and education to rapidly partner and integrate with leadership teams to take ownership of a project.

Before joining Fahrenheit Advisors, Zach spent over 12 years as a CPA in large recognized public accounting firms gaining extensive experience in GAAP compliance, financial reporting, risk assessment and internal controls. He then served as the CFO within a rapidly growing Richmond-based manufacturer where he built out and managed the accounting, human resources, and IT functions. Zach provided financial leadership over monthly close and reporting, financial and non-financial audits, tax preparation, vendor selection, equipment and infrastructure investments, and various other regulatory and compliance requirements.
